

Alisha Joslyn-Swob is an admissions counselor at Rochester Institute of Technology's National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID). Alisha received her B.S., Professional and Technical Communication, from Rochester Institute of Technology and is currently working on her M.S., Human Resource Development, also at the Rochester Institute of Technology. Alisha is responsible for the Southwest Region of the United States and travels to many schools and meets with families of deaf and hard of hearing students throughout her region. She and her husband, Tyler Swob are both deaf and proud parents of a two and half-year-old deaf son who is currently attending Rochester School for the Deaf part-time through their Early Childhood Center (ECC) and F.I.R.S.T. Program. Alisha also has involvement with Early Intervention for her son. Alisha and her family reside in Rochester, NY.